12. LEVEL OF PERFORMANCE

Comparison of average final score in Qualifications

Comparison of average D score in Qualifications & Apparatus medalists'

Comparison of average E score in Qualifications & Apparatus medalists'

Top 8 gymnasts' average N of apparatuses performed during Qualifications.

Analyzing average number of apparatuses performed by top 8 gymnasts helps us clarify the "indicator of specialty" of a given apparatus, the level of its "remoteness" from All-Around gymnastics. As we can see, Rings has the lowest number of performed apparatuses by top 8 gymnasts with an average 2.125 and no-one among all finalists performed 6 apparatuses during the Qualifications.

The second most specialised apparatus is the Pommel Horse with an average of 2.250 performed apparatuses. Pommel Horse had only 1 All-Arounder among its finalists. The other apparatuses are to be considered with moderate to low indicator of specialty having an average in the range of 3-5 apparatuses. Floor has the highest number of performed apparatuses with an average of 5.125, the majority of finalists (6) performed all six apparatuses in the Qualifications.

Compared to the last year's world championships in Antwerp, gymnasts on average performed less apparatuses, with a possible reason of not having to compete All-Around to qualify for the future competitions.

Difference between medalists & Qualifications average scores

In given statistics High Bar column can be partially overlooked because of an extraordinary and unique Apparatus Final, which saw 6 gymnasts (out of 8) to fall, including 2 Olympic bronze medalists!

Putting High Bar aside, floor is the apparatus with lowest difference in all three scores between medalists and an average gymnast. That puts floor to be the piece of apparatus that gymnasts on average perform well, thus ensuring denser contest for the Final and higher diversity of athletes showing good results and winning medals. An average gymnast should increase E score for just 0.396 and D score for 0,795 in order to be in the medals.

Pommel horse column is noticeably taller compared to others. Pommel horse is the apparatuses with most severe separation between medalists and an average gymnast, those have much narrower group of gymnasts contesting for the medals. All three Olympic pommel horse medalists are specialists on this apparatus and performed only one apparatus during the whole competitions.

Pommel horse has the highest final score detachment, both D and E scores need to be way higher (average of 1 full mark) than that of an average gymnast in order to get a medal. Especially E score's detachment is remarkably high, the largest E score detachment among all apparatuses of 1.041. All in all, the final score should be improved by more than 2.0 marks!

Rings and Parallel Bars share a similar story, though in a more moderate scale, the final score should be improved by 1.6, primarily due to the difference in D score, thus meaning that an average gymnast performs these apparatuses relatively clean, though in order to be in the medals D score should be improved way higher.

Statistics clearly shows that there is no apparatus where only one of the scores should be improved in order to content for the medals. Both E and D scores differ considerably from an average performance on all apparatuses. The detachment of 0.051 of E score on High Bar, as mentioned above, is an extraordinary exception, but still holds the truth. For reference, on all examined apparatuses the difference of D score is higher than of E score, with the exception of Pommel horse, where medalists have remarkably greater E score, which highlights their technical proficiency above an average gymnast.

The level of performance and average scores on all apparatuses are in general higher compared to the last year's world championships in Antwerp, which emphasizes the highest importance and mastery level at the Olympics.

ITO by continents

An additional Superior Jury member has been appointed by the MTC. The Nomination of Mario VUKOJA CRO has been approved by the FIG EC.
E judges draw took place before each phase of the competition.

Judges briefing

All relevant information was received from Members of the MTC. The judge's instructions for the D-Juries and E-Juries were conducted separately. For the first time during Olympic Games MTC had used interactive quiz for testing exercises evaluation during judges' instructions. Every judge was able to test themselves using their smartphone and straight after receive feedback and personal results (by points) for the testing. Results of the tests gave the MTC necessary information about the method to test exercise evaluations.

Podium training

Podium Training for the competition was conducted in accordance with the Qualifications schedule. All D judges stayed for all subdivisions in the venue during podium training. The D-Juries evaluated all the routines that were shown by the gymnasts during the podium training. All controversial elements were immediately discussed with the coaches.

Competition

Generally, competition was well organized and managed by POGOC. Schedule of subdivisions was conducted in order with timetable. In the warming up area all apparatus were placed on the podium, which is perfectly convenient for gymnasts. There were some Apparatus finalists using Warming up hall for their training during the All-Around warming up session, I strongly recommend regulating this condition more carefully for the future events.

The D-Juries were very consistent and used the same criteria to evaluate the performances of all gymnasts. 16 inquires submitted, 12 was rejected. SJ used JSS to solve all inquire cases.

E judges work was evaluated by JEP program in all phases of the competition. MTC had conducted PCVR. Longest phase - Qualifications was consistent in evaluation from first until the last subdivision.

20. CONCLUSION

Special thanks to the FIG President Mr. Morinari WATANABE and FIG Secretary General Nicolas BUOMPANE. It was a great pleasure to work with POGOC and FIG Staff to organize such a successful and colorful Olympic Games.

I warmly thank MTC members, SJ members for their professional work as a team, all ITO and NTO judges for their confidence and professionalism.

Respectfully submitted,

*Arturs MICKEVICS,
President FIG/MTC*
